

Soft Skills

Soft skills are a combination of interpersonal, communication, and social intelligence skills that enable individuals to interact effectively and harmoniously with others. These skills are essential for success in both personal and professional life. Some examples of soft skills include:

1. Communication: The ability to effectively convey information and ideas through verbal and non-verbal means.
2. Teamwork: The ability to work collaboratively with others towards a common goal.
3. Adaptability: The ability to adjust to new situations and environments.
4. Problem-solving: The ability to identify, analyze, and find solutions to problems.
5. Time management: The ability to prioritize tasks and use time effectively.
6. Leadership: The ability to guide, motivate, and inspire others towards a common goal.
7. Emotional intelligence: The ability to understand and manage one's own emotions and the emotions of others.

Soft skills are often developed through experience and practice, and can be improved through training and coaching. They are highly valued by employers and are essential for building strong relationships and achieving success in the workplace.

Course Objectives:

1. To provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the subject matter.
2. To equip students with the necessary skills and knowledge to apply the concepts learned in real-life situations.
3. To encourage critical thinking and problem-solving skills through the use of case studies and practical examples.
4. To foster a deep appreciation for the subject and its relevance in today's world.
5. To prepare students for further study or employment in the field.

1. Students will be enabled to understand the correct usage of grammar.

- Grammar is the set of rules that govern the composition of sentences, phrases, and words in any given language.
- Understanding grammar is essential for effective communication, as it helps to convey the intended meaning accurately.
- Students can learn grammar through various methods, such as studying grammar rules, practicing exercises, and reading and writing texts.

- It is important for students to learn the correct usage of grammar, as it can improve their writing and speaking skills, and help them to express themselves clearly and effectively.
- By mastering grammar, students can also improve their reading comprehension and their ability to analyze and interpret texts.
- In summary, understanding the correct usage of grammar is an important skill for students to develop, as it can enhance their communication abilities and overall academic performance.

2. Students will be able to converse well with effective speaking and listening skills in English.

- Effective speaking and listening skills are essential for successful communication in any language, including English.
- To improve speaking skills, students can practice speaking in English with others, either in person or through online platforms. They can also record themselves speaking and listen back to identify areas for improvement.
- To improve listening skills, students can listen to English audio materials such as podcasts, news broadcasts, or audiobooks. They can also practice active listening by paying close attention to what others are saying and asking clarifying questions.
- By developing effective speaking and listening skills, students will be able to communicate their ideas clearly and understand others better, leading to more successful conversations in English.

3. Students will be able to create substantial base by the formation of strong professional

- Students can create a strong professional base by developing skills and knowledge in their field of interest.
- This can be achieved through a combination of formal education, practical experience, and self-directed learning.
- Building a strong professional network can also help students establish a solid foundation for their careers.
- Participating in internships, mentorship programs, and professional organizations can provide valuable opportunities for students to gain experience and make connections in their field.
- By actively seeking out and engaging in these opportunities, students can build a strong professional base that will serve them well throughout their careers.

Vocabulary for its application at different platforms and through numerous modes:

1. Reading: Vocabulary is essential for understanding and comprehending written text. It is important to have a strong vocabulary when reading books, articles, or any other written material.

2. Writing: A strong vocabulary is also important when writing. It allows the writer to convey their thoughts and ideas more effectively and with greater precision.
3. Speaking: Vocabulary is crucial when speaking, as it allows the speaker to communicate their thoughts and ideas clearly and effectively.
4. Listening: A strong vocabulary is also important when listening, as it allows the listener to understand and comprehend what is being said.
5. Language Learning: Vocabulary is a key component of language learning. It is essential to have a strong vocabulary when learning a new language, as it allows the learner to understand and communicate effectively in that language.
6. Exams and Tests: Vocabulary is often tested in exams and tests, such as the SAT, GRE, or TOEFL. A strong vocabulary is essential for performing well on these tests.
7. Professional Communication: Vocabulary is important in professional communication, as it allows individuals to communicate effectively and with precision in a professional setting.
8. Social Media: Vocabulary is also important when using social media, as it allows individuals to communicate effectively and with precision on various social media platforms.

Comprehension, Reading and Writing

Comprehension, reading and writing are three interrelated skills that are essential for effective communication and learning. Here are some key points to consider:

1. Comprehension refers to the ability to understand and interpret written or spoken language. It involves making connections between the words, sentences and ideas presented, and using prior knowledge and experience to make sense of the information.
2. Reading is the process of decoding written text and making meaning from it. It involves recognizing the letters and words, understanding the structure and organization of the text, and using various strategies to comprehend the meaning.
3. Writing is the process of expressing thoughts, ideas and information in written form. It involves organizing and structuring ideas, using appropriate vocabulary and grammar, and effectively conveying the intended message.
4. To improve comprehension, it is important to actively engage with the text, ask questions, make predictions, and visualize the information. It is also helpful to have a strong vocabulary and background knowledge on the topic.

5. To improve reading skills, it is important to practice regularly, read a variety of texts, and use strategies such as previewing, skimming and scanning. It is also helpful to have a strong foundation in phonics and word recognition.
6. To improve writing skills, it is important to practice regularly, plan and organize ideas, and revise and edit the work. It is also helpful to have a strong understanding of grammar, punctuation and spelling.
7. Comprehension, reading and writing are interconnected and mutually reinforcing. Improving one skill can have a positive impact on the others. It is important to practice and develop all three skills to become an effective communicator and learner.

4. Student will be able to equip with basics of communication skills and will apply it for:

1. Effective communication: Students will learn the basics of effective communication, including active listening, clear and concise expression, and appropriate body language. This will enable them to communicate their ideas and thoughts effectively in personal and professional settings.
2. Interpersonal relationships: Students will learn how to build and maintain positive relationships with others through effective communication. This includes understanding the importance of empathy, respect, and trust in building strong interpersonal relationships.
3. Conflict resolution: Students will learn how to use effective communication to resolve conflicts in a constructive manner. This includes understanding the importance of finding common ground, expressing one's own needs and concerns, and actively listening to the other party.
4. Teamwork: Students will learn how to use effective communication to work collaboratively with others in a team setting. This includes understanding the importance of clear and open communication, active listening, and constructive feedback in achieving common goals.
5. Presentation skills: Students will learn how to effectively present their ideas and thoughts to others in a clear and engaging manner. This includes understanding the importance of preparation, organization, and delivery in making effective presentations.

By equipping themselves with the basics of communication skills, students will be able to apply these skills in various personal and professional settings, leading to more successful and fulfilling interactions with others.

Practical and Oral Purposes by Being Honed Up in Presentation Skills and Voice-Dynamics

1. Presentation skills and voice-dynamics are essential for effective communication in both personal and professional settings.
2. Developing strong presentation skills can help individuals convey their ideas and messages more clearly and persuasively.
3. Voice-dynamics, including tone, pitch, and volume, can greatly impact the delivery and reception of a message.
4. By honing their presentation skills and voice-dynamics, individuals can improve their ability to engage and persuade their audience.
5. Effective presentation skills and voice-dynamics can also enhance an individual's confidence and credibility.
6. These skills can be developed through practice, feedback, and training.
7. In summary, honing presentation skills and voice-dynamics can have practical and oral benefits for individuals in both personal and professional settings.

5. Students will be able build up personal traits that will make the transition from institution

1. Time management: Students can develop the ability to prioritize tasks and manage their time effectively, which will help them balance their academic and personal responsibilities.
2. Self-motivation: Students can learn to motivate themselves to achieve their goals, which will help them stay focused and driven in their academic and professional pursuits.
3. Adaptability: Students can develop the ability to adapt to new situations and challenges, which will help them navigate the transition from an academic institution to the professional world.
4. Communication skills: Students can improve their communication skills, which will help them effectively convey their ideas and collaborate with others in a professional setting.
5. Critical thinking: Students can develop their critical thinking skills, which will help them analyze information, solve problems, and make informed decisions in their academic and professional lives.

To make the workplace smoother and help employees excel in their jobs:

1. Effective communication: Encourage open and honest communication among employees and between employees and management. This can help to prevent misunderstandings and conflicts.
2. Clear expectations: Ensure that employees understand their roles and responsibilities, as well as the goals and objectives of the organization. This can help them to focus their efforts and work more efficiently.

3. Training and development: Provide employees with the training and resources they need to perform their jobs effectively. This can help them to develop new skills and improve their performance.
4. Recognition and rewards: Recognize and reward employees for their hard work and achievements. This can help to boost morale and motivation.
5. Work-life balance: Encourage employees to maintain a healthy work-life balance. This can help to reduce stress and improve their overall well-being.
6. Teamwork: Promote teamwork and collaboration among employees. This can help to foster a positive and supportive work environment.
7. Leadership: Provide strong and effective leadership. This can help to guide and motivate employees, and to create a sense of direction and purpose within the organization.
8. Feedback: Provide employees with regular feedback on their performance. This can help them to identify areas for improvement and to develop their skills and abilities.
9. Fairness and equality: Treat all employees fairly and equally, and ensure that there is no discrimination or bias in the workplace. This can help to create a positive and inclusive work environment.
10. Safety and security: Ensure that the workplace is safe and secure, and that employees are protected from harm. This can help to reduce the risk of accidents and injuries, and to promote a sense of well-being among employees.

Content Contact

1. Content contact refers to the interaction between the content of a message and its audience.
2. It is important to consider the audience when creating content, as the message should be tailored to their needs and interests.
3. Content contact can be achieved through various means, such as personalization, relevance, and engagement.
4. Personalization involves tailoring the content to the individual user, taking into account their preferences and behavior.
5. Relevance refers to the importance or usefulness of the content to the audience.
6. Engagement involves creating content that is interesting and interactive, encouraging the audience to engage with the message.
7. Effective content contact can lead to increased audience engagement, retention, and loyalty.

8. It is important to regularly evaluate and adjust content contact strategies to ensure their effectiveness.

Hours

- An hour is a unit of time that is equal to 60 minutes or 3,600 seconds.
- It is one of the most commonly used units of time worldwide.
- The concept of the hour can be traced back to ancient civilizations such as the Egyptians, who divided the day into 24 equal parts.
- The hour is commonly represented using the symbol “h” or “hr”.
- In many parts of the world, the 24-hour clock is used to represent time, where the hours of the day are numbered from 0 to 23.
- In other parts of the world, the 12-hour clock is used, where the hours of the day are numbered from 1 to 12, with the addition of “AM” or “PM” to distinguish between morning and afternoon/evening hours.
- The hour is also used as a measure of angle, where one hour is equal to 15 degrees.
- Time zones are regions of the Earth that have the same standard time, and they are usually separated by one hour.
- Daylight saving time is the practice of advancing clocks by one hour during the summer months to make better use of natural daylight.
- The length of an hour can vary slightly due to the irregularities in the Earth’s rotation. However, this variation is usually not noticeable in everyday life.

Unit-1 Applied Grammar and Usage: 8

1. Subject-Verb Agreement: The verb must agree with its subject in number and person. For example, “She writes” but “They write”.
2. Tenses: Tenses are used to indicate the time of an action or state of being. There are three main tenses: present, past, and future.
3. Active and Passive Voice: In the active voice, the subject performs the action. In the passive voice, the subject receives the action. For example, “The cat chased the mouse” (active) vs. “The mouse was chased by the cat” (passive).
4. Modifiers: Modifiers are words or phrases that provide additional information about the noun or verb they modify. For example, “The quick brown fox” or “She sings beautifully”.
5. Pronouns: Pronouns are words that take the place of a noun. For example, “She” instead of “Mary” or “It” instead of “the book”.
6. Prepositions: Prepositions are words that show the relationship between a noun or pronoun and other words in a sentence. For example, “The book is on the table” or “She arrived after dinner”.
7. Conjunctions: Conjunctions are words that join words, phrases, or clauses. For example, “She likes pizza and ice cream” or “I will go to the store if I have time”.

8. Interjections: Interjections are words or phrases that express strong emotion. For example, “Wow!” or “Oh no!”.

Transformation of Sentences: Simple, Compound and Complex, Subject-verb agreement, Prefix and Suffix, Antonyms, Synonyms, Homophones

1. Transformation of Sentences: Transformation of sentences refers to the process of changing the form of a sentence without changing its meaning. There are three main types of sentences: simple, compound, and complex.
 - Simple sentences contain only one independent clause and no dependent clauses. For example, “The cat is sleeping.”
 - Compound sentences contain two or more independent clauses joined by a coordinating conjunction. For example, “The cat is sleeping, and the dog is playing.”
 - Complex sentences contain one independent clause and at least one dependent clause. For example, “Although the cat is sleeping, the dog is playing.”
2. Subject-verb agreement: Subject-verb agreement refers to the grammatical rule that the verb must agree in number with its subject. For example, “The cat is sleeping” (singular subject, singular verb) and “The cats are sleeping” (plural subject, plural verb).
3. Prefix and Suffix: A prefix is a group of letters added to the beginning of a word to change its meaning. For example, the prefix “un-” can be added to the word “happy” to create the word “unhappy.” A suffix is a group of letters added to the end of a word to change its meaning. For example, the suffix “-ness” can be added to the word “happy” to create the word “happiness.”
4. Antonyms: Antonyms are words that have opposite meanings. For example, “happy” and “sad” are antonyms.
5. Synonyms: Synonyms are words that have similar meanings. For example, “happy” and “joyful” are synonyms.
6. Homophones: Homophones are words that sound the same but have different meanings and spellings. For example, “flower” and “flour” are homophones.

Homonyms, New Word Formation, Select Word Power

Homonyms

- Homonyms are words that have the same spelling and pronunciation but different meanings.

- Examples of homonyms include “bat” (a flying mammal or a piece of sports equipment), “bank” (a financial institution or the side of a river), and “bark” (the sound a dog makes or the outer layer of a tree).

New Word Formation

- New words can be formed in a variety of ways, including compounding, blending, clipping, and back-formation.
- Compounding involves combining two or more words to create a new word, such as “toothbrush” or “sunflower”.
- Blending involves combining parts of two or more words to create a new word, such as “brunch” (from “breakfast” and “lunch”) or “smog” (from “smoke” and “fog”).
- Clipping involves shortening a word to create a new word, such as “ad” (from “advertisement”) or “gym” (from “gymnasium”).
- Back-formation involves creating a new word by removing a real or supposed affix from an existing word, such as “edit” (from “editor”) or “babysit” (from “babysitter”).

Select Word Power

- Select word power refers to the ability to choose the most appropriate words to convey a particular meaning or message.
- This skill involves having a strong vocabulary and understanding the nuances of word usage and connotation.
- To improve your select word power, you can read widely, learn new words and their meanings, and practice using words in context. It can also be helpful to pay attention to how words are used by others, particularly in writing.

Unit-2: Listening and Speaking Skills

1. Listening Skills: Listening is the ability to accurately receive and interpret messages in the communication process. It is key to all effective communication and is an essential skill for personal and professional development.
2. Types of Listening: There are several types of listening, including:
 - Discriminative Listening: This is the most basic type of listening and involves distinguishing between different sounds and tones.
 - Comprehensive Listening: This involves understanding the message being conveyed and is essential for effective communication.
 - Critical Listening: This involves analyzing and evaluating the information being presented.
 - Empathic Listening: This involves understanding the speaker’s emotions and feelings.

3. Barriers to Effective Listening: There are several barriers to effective listening, including:
 - Physical Barriers: These include noise, distance, and other environmental factors that can interfere with the ability to hear.
 - Psychological Barriers: These include stress, anxiety, and other emotional states that can affect the ability to concentrate.
 - Language Barriers: These include differences in language, accent, and vocabulary that can make it difficult to understand the speaker.
4. Speaking Skills: Speaking is the ability to convey information and express thoughts and feelings through spoken language. It is an essential skill for effective communication and personal and professional development.
5. Elements of Effective Speaking: There are several elements of effective speaking, including:
 - Clarity: The speaker should convey their message in a clear and concise manner.
 - Tone: The tone of the speaker's voice can convey emotions and attitudes.
 - Body Language: The speaker's body language can reinforce or contradict their spoken message.
 - Eye Contact: Maintaining eye contact with the audience can help establish a connection and convey sincerity.
6. Barriers to Effective Speaking: There are several barriers to effective speaking, including:
 - Physical Barriers: These include speech impediments, illness, and other physical conditions that can affect the ability to speak.
 - Psychological Barriers: These include anxiety, fear, and other emotional states that can affect the ability to speak confidently.
 - Language Barriers: These include differences in language, accent, and vocabulary that can make it difficult to convey a message effectively.
7. Improving Listening and Speaking Skills: There are several ways to improve listening and speaking skills, including:
 - Practice: Regular practice can help improve both listening and speaking skills.
 - Feedback: Seeking feedback from others can help identify areas for improvement.
 - Training: Formal training in listening and speaking skills can provide structured guidance and support.
8. Conclusion: Listening and speaking skills are essential for effective communication and personal and professional development. By understanding the different types of listening and speaking, the barriers to effective communication, and the ways to improve these skills, individuals can enhance their ability to communicate effectively.

Active Listening: Meaning and Art of Listening, Traits of a Good Listener

Active listening is a communication technique that involves fully concentrating, understanding, responding to, and remembering what is being said. It is an important skill that can improve relationships, reduce misunderstandings, and enhance problem-solving abilities.

The art of listening involves paying attention to both verbal and nonverbal cues, such as body language and tone of voice. It also involves providing feedback to the speaker, such as nodding or asking clarifying questions, to show that you are engaged in the conversation.

Some traits of a good listener include: - Being non-judgmental and open-minded - Providing undivided attention to the speaker - Avoiding interrupting or finishing the speaker's sentences - Asking clarifying questions to ensure understanding - Providing appropriate feedback, such as summarizing what was said or expressing empathy - Avoiding distractions, such as checking your phone or looking around the room

By practicing active listening, you can improve your communication skills and build stronger relationships with others. It takes effort and practice, but the benefits are well worth it.

Listening Modes, Listening and Note Taking, Types of Listening, Listening

Listening Modes

There are four main listening modes: 1. Appreciative listening: This mode is used when we listen for enjoyment, such as when we listen to music or a funny story. 2. Empathic listening: This mode is used when we listen to understand someone else's feelings or emotions, such as when we listen to a friend who is going through a difficult time. 3. Comprehensive listening: This mode is used when we listen to understand and learn, such as when we listen to a lecture or a news report. 4. Critical listening: This mode is used when we listen to evaluate and make judgments, such as when we listen to a political speech or a sales pitch.

Listening and Note Taking

Effective note-taking during lectures or meetings can help improve comprehension and retention of information. Some tips for effective note-taking include: - Be selective: Focus on the main points and key details, rather than trying to write down everything that is said. - Use abbreviations and symbols: Develop a system of abbreviations and symbols to help you take notes more quickly. - Organize your notes: Use headings, subheadings, and bullet points to organize your notes and make them easier to review later. - Review and revise: Review your notes soon after the lecture or meeting to fill in any gaps and clarify any confusing points.

Types of Listening

There are several types of listening, including:

1. Discriminative listening: This type of listening involves distinguishing between different sounds and understanding their meaning, such as when we listen to someone speaking in a noisy environment.
2. Informational listening: This type of listening involves listening to understand and learn new information, such as when we listen to a news report or a lecture.
3. Critical listening: This type of listening involves listening to evaluate and make judgments, such as when we listen to a political speech or a sales pitch.
4. Therapeutic listening: This type of listening involves listening to provide emotional support, such as when we listen to a friend who is going through a difficult time.

Listening

Listening is the process of receiving, attending to, and interpreting auditory stimuli. Effective listening involves not only hearing the words that are spoken, but also understanding the meaning behind them. Some tips for effective listening include:

- Pay attention: Give the speaker your full attention and avoid distractions.
- Be open-minded: Try to understand the speaker's point of view, even if you don't agree with it.
- Provide feedback: Let the speaker know that you are listening by nodding, making eye contact, and providing verbal feedback.
- Don't interrupt: Allow the speaker to finish their thoughts before responding.

Techniques using Ted Talk Audio listening with script reading, Pronunciation:

1. Listen to the audio while reading the script: This can help improve your listening and reading skills simultaneously. By following along with the script, you can better understand the speaker's pronunciation, intonation, and emphasis.
2. Pause and repeat difficult sections: If you come across a section that is difficult to understand, pause the audio and repeat it several times until you can understand it clearly. This can help improve your listening comprehension.
3. Practice pronunciation: After listening to the audio, try to mimic the speaker's pronunciation, intonation, and emphasis. This can help improve your own pronunciation and speaking skills.

4. Take notes: While listening to the audio, take notes on the main ideas and important details. This can help improve your listening comprehension and retention of the information.
5. Discuss the content with others: After listening to the audio, discuss the content with others to further improve your understanding and retention of the information. This can also help improve your speaking skills.
6. Use the audio as a model for your own presentations: If you are preparing for a presentation, use the audio as a model for your own presentation. Pay attention to the speaker's pacing, intonation, and emphasis, and try to incorporate these elements into your own presentation. This can help improve your presentation skills.

Speaking style; content and sequencing

1. Speaking style refers to the way a person communicates verbally, including their tone, pace, and use of language.
2. The content of a speech refers to the information or message being conveyed.
3. Sequencing refers to the order in which the content is presented.
4. Effective communication requires a balance between speaking style, content, and sequencing.
5. A speaker's style should be appropriate for the audience and the message being conveyed.
6. The content should be well-organized and presented in a logical sequence to help the audience understand and retain the information.
7. Using techniques such as repetition, summarizing, and signposting can help to clarify the structure and main points of the speech.
8. It is important to consider the audience's prior knowledge and interests when selecting and organizing the content.
9. The use of visual aids, such as slides or handouts, can help to reinforce the content and make it more engaging for the audience.
10. Practice and preparation are key to delivering a successful speech, with a clear and confident speaking style, well-organized content, and effective sequencing.

Unit-3: Reading and Writing Skills: 8

1. Reading and writing skills are essential for effective communication and academic success.
2. Reading skills involve the ability to comprehend, analyze, and interpret written text.
3. Writing skills involve the ability to express thoughts and ideas clearly and coherently in written form.

4. Developing strong reading and writing skills requires practice and dedication.
5. Strategies for improving reading skills include active reading, summarizing, and note-taking.
6. Strategies for improving writing skills include planning, drafting, revising, and editing.
7. Reading and writing skills are interconnected and can be improved simultaneously through activities such as journaling and essay writing.
8. Strong reading and writing skills can enhance critical thinking, creativity, and problem-solving abilities.

Reading style: Skimming; Scanning; Churning & Assimilation, Effective writing

1. Skimming is a reading technique that involves quickly going through the text to get a general idea of its content. This technique is useful when you need to quickly understand the main points of a text without going into detail.
2. Scanning is another reading technique that involves quickly searching for specific information in a text. This technique is useful when you need to find a particular piece of information, such as a date or a name, without reading the entire text.
3. Churning is the process of actively engaging with the text to understand it deeply. This involves reading the text carefully, taking notes, and thinking critically about its content.
4. Assimilation is the process of integrating new information into your existing knowledge. This involves connecting the information you have just read with what you already know, and using it to build a deeper understanding of the topic.
5. Effective writing is the ability to communicate your ideas clearly and concisely in writing. This involves organizing your thoughts, using appropriate language and grammar, and presenting your ideas in a logical and coherent manner.

These reading and writing techniques can help you to read and write more effectively, and to get the most out of the texts you encounter. By using a combination of these techniques, you can improve your reading and writing skills, and become a more effective communicator.

Tools and Methods: Inductive, Deductive, Exposition, Linear, Interrupted, Spatial

- Inductive: Inductive reasoning is a method of reasoning in which the premises are viewed as supplying some evidence for the truth of the conclusion. It is also described as a method where one's experiences and observations, including what are learned from others, are synthesized to come up with a general truth.

- Deductive: Deductive reasoning is a logical process in which a conclusion is based on the concordance of multiple premises that are generally assumed to be true. It is a top-down approach to reasoning, where one starts with a general statement and deduces specific instances.
- Exposition: Exposition is a type of writing that explains or informs. It is one of the four traditional modes of discourse, along with description, narration, and argumentation. The purpose of exposition is to convey information and explain ideas clearly and logically.
- Linear: Linear writing is a method of organizing information in a clear and logical sequence. It is often used in academic writing, where the writer presents an argument or thesis and supports it with evidence and examples in a linear fashion.
- Interrupted: Interrupted writing is a method of organizing information in a non-linear fashion. It involves breaking up the flow of a text with interruptions, such as digressions, flashbacks, or shifts in perspective. This can be used to create a more engaging and dynamic narrative.
- Spatial: Spatial organization is a method of organizing information based on the physical location or arrangement of objects. It is often used in descriptive writing, where the writer describes a scene or setting by moving from one location to another, or by describing the relationships between objects in space.

Chronological etc, Official and Business Letter writing, Agenda, Notices

- Chronological: Chronological order refers to the arrangement of events, items or information in the order in which they occurred or should occur. This is commonly used in writing historical accounts, biographies, and narratives.
- Official and Business Letter writing: Official and business letters are formal letters used for communication in a professional setting. These letters follow a specific format and tone, and are used for various purposes such as making inquiries, placing orders, making complaints, or requesting information.
- Agenda: An agenda is a list of items to be discussed or acted upon during a meeting or event. It is typically prepared in advance and distributed to participants to help them prepare for the meeting.
- Notices: A notice is a written or printed announcement that provides information or instructions to a specific audience. Notices are commonly used to inform people about events, changes, or other important information. They can be posted in public places, sent by mail or email, or published in newspapers or other media.

Minutes of Meeting

Minutes of meeting, also known as meeting minutes or MoM, are written records of the discussions and decisions made during a meeting. They serve as an official record of the meeting and are used to inform attendees and non-attendees about what was discussed and decided.

Here are some key points to consider when writing minutes of meeting:

1. Preparation: Before the meeting, prepare an agenda and a template for the minutes. This will help you to organize the information and ensure that all important topics are covered.
2. Attendance: Record the names of all attendees, including any guests or observers. If someone is absent, make a note of their absence.
3. Agenda: Follow the agenda and record the discussions and decisions for each item. If any new items are added to the agenda during the meeting, make sure to record them as well.
4. Action Items: Record any action items that are assigned during the meeting, including the person responsible and the deadline for completion.
5. Decisions: Record all decisions made during the meeting, including any votes or consensus reached.
6. Clarity: Write the minutes in a clear and concise manner, avoiding any jargon or technical terms that may be unfamiliar to the readers.
7. Timeliness: Complete the minutes as soon as possible after the meeting, while the information is still fresh in your mind.
8. Distribution: Distribute the minutes to all attendees and any other relevant parties, such as senior management or stakeholders.
9. Review: At the start of the next meeting, review the minutes from the previous meeting to ensure that all action items have been completed and that there are no outstanding issues.

By following these guidelines, you can create clear and effective minutes of meeting that serve as a valuable record of the discussions and decisions made during the meeting.

Unit-4: Presentation and Interaction Skills

1. Presentation Skills: The ability to effectively communicate information and ideas to an audience through a structured and engaging presentation.

2. Preparation: Research and organize the content of the presentation, create visual aids, and practice the delivery.
3. Delivery: Use clear and concise language, maintain eye contact, and use body language to engage the audience.
4. Interaction Skills: The ability to effectively communicate and collaborate with others in a group or team setting.
5. Active Listening: Pay attention to what others are saying, ask clarifying questions, and provide feedback.
6. Effective Communication: Use clear and concise language, be respectful, and use appropriate body language.
7. Conflict Resolution: Identify and address conflicts in a constructive manner, and work towards finding a mutually beneficial solution.
8. Collaboration: Work together towards a common goal, share ideas and resources, and support each other.

These skills are essential for effective communication and collaboration in both personal and professional settings. They can be developed and improved through practice and training.

Introduction to oral communication, Nuances and Modes of Speech Delivery

Oral communication refers to the spoken exchange of information, ideas, and thoughts between two or more people. It is one of the most common and effective forms of communication. Some of the key aspects of oral communication include:

1. Clarity: The speaker should be clear and concise in their speech, using language that is easily understood by the audience.
2. Tone: The tone of voice used by the speaker can convey emotions and attitudes, and can greatly impact the effectiveness of the communication.
3. Non-verbal cues: Body language, facial expressions, and gestures can also convey meaning and should be used effectively in oral communication.
4. Active listening: Effective oral communication also involves active listening on the part of the audience, to ensure that the message is received and understood.

There are several modes of speech delivery, including:

1. Impromptu: This is an unprepared, spontaneous speech, often given in response to an unexpected situation or question.
2. Extemporaneous: This is a speech that is prepared in advance, but delivered without notes or a script.
3. Manuscript: This is a speech that is written out in full and read from a script.

4. Memorized: This is a speech that is written out in full and memorized by the speaker.

Each mode of speech delivery has its own nuances and can be effective in different situations. It is important for the speaker to choose the appropriate mode for the situation and audience.

Public speaking: confidence, clarity, and fluency, Individual Speaking: Elements

Public speaking is an art that requires confidence, clarity, and fluency. Here are some elements that can help individuals improve their public speaking skills:

1. Confidence: Confidence is key when it comes to public speaking. It is important to believe in yourself and your message. Practice and preparation can help boost your confidence.
2. Clarity: Clarity is essential for effective communication. Make sure your message is clear and easy to understand. Use simple language and avoid jargon.
3. Fluency: Fluency is the ability to speak smoothly and with ease. Practice speaking at a comfortable pace and avoid filler words like “um” and “ah.”
4. Body language: Body language is an important aspect of public speaking. Stand up straight, make eye contact, and use gestures to emphasize your points.
5. Voice: Your voice is a powerful tool. Use it to your advantage by varying your tone, volume, and pace to keep your audience engaged.
6. Preparation: Preparation is key to a successful presentation. Know your material, practice your delivery, and anticipate questions from your audience.
7. Audience engagement: Engage your audience by asking questions, telling stories, and using visual aids. Make your presentation interactive and interesting.

By focusing on these elements, individuals can improve their public speaking skills and deliver effective presentations with confidence, clarity, and fluency.

Non verbal Communication: Kinesics, Paralinguistic features of Voice-Dynamics

Nonverbal communication refers to the ways in which we communicate without using words. It includes body language, facial expressions, gestures, and tone of voice. Nonverbal communication is an important part of how we convey meaning and emotions to others.

1. Kinesics refers to the study of body movements, including facial expressions, gestures, and posture. It is an important aspect of nonverbal communication, as our body language can convey a great deal of information about our emotions, attitudes, and intentions.
2. Paralinguistic features of Voice-Dynamics refer to the nonverbal elements of speech, such as tone, pitch, volume, and rate. These features can convey a great deal of information about the speaker's emotions and attitudes, and can also be used to emphasize or clarify the meaning of the words being spoken.

In summary, nonverbal communication is an important part of how we convey meaning and emotions to others. Kinesics and paralinguistic features of voice-dynamics are two important aspects of nonverbal communication that can provide valuable information about the speaker's emotions, attitudes, and intentions. It is important to be aware of these nonverbal cues when communicating with others, as they can greatly influence the way our messages are received and interpreted.

Proxemics, Chronemics, and Presentation Strategies: planning, preparation

1. Proxemics refers to the study of how people use and perceive the physical space around them. It includes the distance between individuals, the arrangement of objects, and the use of space in communication.
2. Chronemics refers to the study of how time is used in communication. It includes the use of time in nonverbal communication, the perception of time, and the importance of time in different cultures.
3. Presentation strategies involve planning and preparation to effectively communicate a message to an audience. This includes the use of visual aids, body language, and vocal delivery to enhance the message.
4. Planning is an essential part of presentation strategies. It involves identifying the purpose of the presentation, the audience, and the key message to be conveyed.
5. Preparation involves researching the topic, organizing the information, and rehearsing the delivery. This helps to ensure that the presentation is clear, concise, and engaging for the audience.

Organization, Delivery

Organization and delivery are two important aspects of effective communication. Here are some key points to consider:

1. Organization: This refers to the structure and arrangement of information in a logical and coherent manner. It is important to organize your thoughts and ideas before communicating them to others. This can be done by creating an outline, grouping related information together, and using headings and subheadings to organize the content.

2. Delivery: This refers to the way in which the information is presented or conveyed to the audience. Effective delivery involves using appropriate tone, body language, and eye contact to engage the audience and convey the message clearly. It is important to speak clearly and confidently, and to use visual aids or props to support the message.
3. Preparation: Both organization and delivery require preparation. Take the time to research and gather information, and to practice your delivery. This will help you to communicate your message effectively and with confidence.
4. Audience: It is important to consider the audience when organizing and delivering information. Tailor your message to the needs and interests of the audience, and use language and examples that are appropriate and relevant to them.
5. Clarity: Clarity is key in effective communication. Ensure that your message is clear and concise, and avoid using jargon or technical terms that may be unfamiliar to the audience.
6. Feedback: Feedback is an important part of the communication process. Encourage feedback from the audience to ensure that your message has been understood and to identify any areas for improvement.

In summary, effective communication involves careful organization and delivery of information. By considering these key points, you can improve your communication skills and convey your message more effectively.

Unit-5: Work- place skills: 8

1. Communication: Effective communication is essential in the workplace. This includes both verbal and written communication, as well as active listening and the ability to express oneself clearly and concisely.
2. Teamwork: The ability to work effectively as part of a team is crucial in most work environments. This involves collaborating with others, sharing ideas, and supporting team members to achieve common goals.
3. Problem-solving: The ability to identify, analyze, and solve problems is a valuable skill in the workplace. This involves using critical thinking, creativity, and decision-making skills to find solutions to challenges.
4. Time management: Effective time management is essential in the workplace. This involves setting priorities, planning and organizing tasks, and managing one's time efficiently to meet deadlines and achieve goals.
5. Adaptability: The ability to adapt to changing situations and environments is important in the workplace. This involves being flexible, open to new ideas, and willing to learn and develop new skills.

6. Leadership: Leadership skills are valuable in the workplace, even for those not in formal leadership positions. This involves taking initiative, motivating and inspiring others, and setting a positive example.
7. Interpersonal skills: Interpersonal skills, such as the ability to build and maintain positive relationships with others, are important in the workplace. This involves showing empathy, respect, and understanding towards others.
8. Attention to detail: Attention to detail is an important skill in many work environments. This involves being thorough, accurate, and meticulous in one's work, and ensuring that tasks are completed to a high standard.

Leadership Qualities: Impact, Communication Skills for Leaders: Listening

Leadership is the ability to guide, inspire, and influence others to achieve a common goal. Effective leaders possess certain qualities that enable them to make an impact and communicate effectively with their team. Some of these qualities include:

1. Impact: Leaders have the ability to make a positive impact on their team and organization. They lead by example and inspire others to achieve their goals.
2. Communication Skills: Effective communication is essential for leaders. They must be able to clearly articulate their vision and goals, and communicate effectively with their team.
3. Listening: Leaders must be good listeners. They must be able to actively listen to their team members, understand their concerns, and respond appropriately.

Effective leaders possess a combination of these qualities, which enables them to make an impact and communicate effectively with their team. By developing these qualities, leaders can inspire and motivate their team to achieve their goals.

Responding; Mental health at work place: Managing Stress; Techniques:

1. Identify the sources of stress: The first step in managing stress is to identify the sources of stress in the workplace. This can be done by keeping a stress diary, talking to colleagues or a supervisor, or seeking help from a professional.
2. Develop a stress management plan: Once the sources of stress have been identified, a stress management plan can be developed. This can include setting realistic goals, prioritizing tasks, and delegating responsibilities.

3. Practice relaxation techniques: Relaxation techniques such as deep breathing, meditation, and yoga can help to reduce stress and promote relaxation.
4. Exercise regularly: Regular physical activity can help to reduce stress and improve overall mental health.
5. Get enough sleep: Getting enough sleep is essential for managing stress and maintaining good mental health.
6. Eat a healthy diet: Eating a healthy diet can help to provide the body with the nutrients it needs to cope with stress.
7. Seek support: It is important to seek support from colleagues, friends, family, or a professional if stress is becoming overwhelming.
8. Take breaks: Taking regular breaks throughout the day can help to reduce stress and improve productivity.
9. Maintain a positive attitude: Maintaining a positive attitude and focusing on the positive aspects of work can help to reduce stress and improve mental health.
10. Avoid unhealthy coping mechanisms: It is important to avoid unhealthy coping mechanisms such as smoking, drinking, or overeating, as these can exacerbate stress and negatively impact mental health. Instead, try to find healthy ways to cope with stress, such as exercise, relaxation techniques, or seeking support.

Application of 4 A's; Avoid; Alter; Access; Adapt

The 4 A's are a framework for managing stress and anxiety. They are:

1. Avoid: This involves identifying and avoiding unnecessary stressors. This can include avoiding people or situations that cause stress, or learning to say "no" to requests that are not essential.
2. Alter: This involves changing the way you deal with stressors that cannot be avoided. This can include changing the way you communicate with others, or managing your time more effectively.
3. Access: This involves seeking support from others when dealing with stress. This can include talking to friends or family, or seeking professional help.
4. Adapt: This involves changing your mindset and attitude towards stress. This can include practicing mindfulness or meditation, or learning to view stressors as challenges rather than threats.

These 4 A's can be applied in various situations to help manage stress and anxiety. By using a combination of these techniques, individuals can learn to better cope with stress and improve their overall well-being.

Course Outcomes:

1. Understanding of the subject matter: Students will gain a thorough understanding of the key concepts, theories, and principles of the course.
2. Development of critical thinking skills: Students will learn to analyze, evaluate, and synthesize information to make informed decisions and solve problems.
3. Improvement of communication skills: Students will learn to effectively communicate their ideas and arguments in both written and oral forms.
4. Enhancement of research skills: Students will learn to conduct research using a variety of sources and methods, and to critically evaluate the credibility and relevance of information.
5. Application of knowledge: Students will learn to apply their knowledge and skills to real-world situations and problems.
6. Development of lifelong learning skills: Students will learn to take responsibility for their own learning and to continue to develop their knowledge and skills beyond the course.
7. Collaboration and teamwork: Students will learn to work effectively with others to achieve common goals.
8. Ethical and social responsibility: Students will learn to consider the ethical and social implications of their actions and decisions.

1. Write professionally in simple and correct English.

- Use proper grammar, spelling, and punctuation.
- Avoid using slang, jargon, or colloquial language.
- Use a formal tone and avoid using contractions.
- Use active voice instead of passive voice.
- Be concise and avoid using unnecessary words or phrases.
- Use proper sentence structure and vary sentence length.
- Use transitional words and phrases to connect ideas and improve the flow of the text.
- Use appropriate vocabulary and avoid using overly complex words or phrases.
- Proofread your writing to ensure it is free of errors and easy to understand.
- Use formatting, such as headings, bullet points, and bold or italic text, to improve the readability of the text.

2. Demonstrate active listening with comprehension, and the ability to write clear and well-structured emails and proposals.

Active listening is a crucial skill that involves fully concentrating, understanding, responding, and remembering what is being said during a conversation. Here are some ways to demonstrate active listening with comprehension:

1. Pay attention: Give the speaker your undivided attention and acknowledge the message. Avoid being distracted by environmental factors or your own thoughts.
2. Show that you are listening: Use body language and gestures to convey your attention, such as nodding, smiling, and maintaining eye contact.
3. Provide feedback: Reflect on what has been said by paraphrasing or summarizing the speaker's remarks. Ask questions to clarify certain points.
4. Defer judgment: Allow the speaker to finish their thought before interrupting or interjecting your own opinions.
5. Respond appropriately: Be candid, open, and honest in your response, while also being respectful.

In addition to active listening, it is also important to have the ability to write clear and well-structured emails and proposals. Here are some tips to achieve this:

1. Plan your message: Before writing, determine the purpose of your email or proposal and the main points you want to convey.
2. Organize your thoughts: Use an outline or a logical structure to organize your ideas and ensure that your message is coherent and easy to follow.
3. Be concise: Keep your message brief and to the point, avoiding unnecessary details or tangents.
4. Use proper grammar and spelling: Proofread your message to ensure that it is free of errors and easy to understand.
5. Be professional: Use a formal tone and appropriate language, avoiding slang or overly casual expressions.

By demonstrating active listening with comprehension and the ability to write clear and well-structured emails and proposals, you can effectively communicate and collaborate with others in a professional setting.

3. Learn the use of correct body language and tone of voice to enhance communication.

Body language and tone of voice are essential components of effective communication. They can convey emotions, attitudes, and intentions that words alone cannot express. Here are some tips to help you use body language and tone of voice effectively:

1. Maintain eye contact: Eye contact is a powerful tool for establishing a connection with the person you are speaking to. It shows that you are interested and engaged in the conversation.
2. Use gestures: Gestures can help to emphasize points and convey emotions. Use them to add emphasis to your words and to help convey your message.
3. Be aware of your posture: Your posture can convey confidence, openness, or defensiveness. Stand or sit up straight to convey confidence and openness.
4. Use an appropriate tone of voice: Your tone of voice can convey emotions and attitudes. Use a calm and friendly tone to convey warmth and friendliness, and a firm tone to convey seriousness.
5. Be aware of your facial expressions: Your facial expressions can convey emotions and attitudes. Smile to convey friendliness and warmth, and use a serious expression to convey seriousness.

By using the correct body language and tone of voice, you can enhance your communication and make your message more effective. Remember to be aware of your body language and tone of voice, and use them to convey your message effectively.

4. Acquire the skills necessary to communicate effectively and deliver presentations with clarity

Effective communication and presentation skills are essential for success in many fields. Here are some tips to help you acquire these skills:

1. Practice active listening: Active listening involves paying close attention to what the speaker is saying, asking clarifying questions, and rephrasing what the speaker says to ensure understanding.
2. Be clear and concise: When communicating, it is important to be clear and concise. Avoid using jargon or technical terms that the audience may not understand.
3. Use body language effectively: Body language can help to reinforce the message you are trying to convey. Make eye contact, use gestures, and maintain good posture to engage your audience.

4. Prepare and organize your thoughts: Before delivering a presentation, take the time to prepare and organize your thoughts. Create an outline to help you stay on track and ensure that your message is clear.
5. Use visual aids: Visual aids can help to reinforce your message and make your presentation more engaging. Use slides, charts, or images to help illustrate your points.
6. Practice, practice, practice: The more you practice, the more comfortable you will become with delivering presentations. Take every opportunity to practice your skills, whether it be in front of a mirror, with friends or family, or in a more formal setting.

By following these tips, you can acquire the skills necessary to communicate effectively and deliver presentations with clarity.

and impact

1. The topic “### and impact” is not clear. Could you please clarify the topic you would like me to write about?
2. Once the topic is clarified, I will be able to provide you with study material in a formal and structured manner, as per your instructions.

5. Understand and apply some important aspects of core skills, like Leadership and stress

Leadership and stress management are two important core skills that can help individuals achieve success in their personal and professional lives. Here are some important aspects of these skills that one can understand and apply:

1. Effective communication: Leaders must be able to communicate their vision, goals, and expectations clearly and effectively to their team members. This helps to ensure that everyone is working towards the same objectives and can help to reduce stress and confusion.
2. Emotional intelligence: Leaders who possess emotional intelligence are able to understand and manage their own emotions, as well as the emotions of others. This can help to reduce stress and conflict within the team and can lead to more effective decision-making.
3. Delegation: Effective leaders know how to delegate tasks and responsibilities to their team members. This not only helps to reduce the leader’s own stress levels, but it also empowers team members and helps them to develop their own skills and abilities.
4. Stress management techniques: Leaders should be familiar with various stress management techniques, such as deep breathing, meditation, and exercise, and should encourage their team members to use these techniques to manage their own stress levels.

5. Leading by example: Leaders who lead by example, by demonstrating the behaviors and attitudes that they expect from their team members, can help to create a positive and low-stress work environment.

By understanding and applying these important aspects of leadership and stress management, individuals can become more effective leaders and can help to create a more positive and productive work environment.

Management

Management is the process of planning, organizing, leading, and controlling resources, including people, finances, and information, to achieve organizational goals. Some key points to consider when studying management are:

1. Management involves setting goals and objectives for an organization and developing strategies to achieve them.
2. Managers must be able to effectively communicate with and motivate their employees to achieve the desired results.
3. Management requires the ability to analyze and solve problems, make decisions, and implement plans.
4. Managers must be able to adapt to changing circumstances and be flexible in their approach to achieving their goals.
5. Effective management involves the efficient use of resources, including time, money, and personnel.
6. Managers must be able to work well with others, both within their own organization and with external stakeholders.
7. Management involves the ability to balance competing demands and priorities to achieve the best outcomes for the organization.

These are some of the key points to consider when studying management. It is a complex and multifaceted discipline that requires a range of skills and knowledge to be successful.

Prescribed Books:

- Prescribed books are the books that are recommended by an educational institution or a board of education for students to read and study.
- These books are selected by a panel of experts and are considered to be the most relevant and important for the students to learn the subject.
- Prescribed books are usually mandatory for students to read and are often used as the basis for exams and assessments.
- The content of prescribed books is carefully curated to meet the learning objectives of the course and to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the subject.
- Prescribed books can be found in libraries, bookstores, and online. Students are usually required to purchase their own copies of the prescribed books.

- It is important for students to read and study the prescribed books thoroughly as they provide the foundation for their learning and success in the course.

1. Technical Communication, (Second Ed.); O.U.P., Meenakshi Raman & S.Sharma New Delhi

- Technical Communication: Principles and Practice is a comprehensive textbook tailored to meet the requirements of undergraduate students of engineering at Gujarat Technological University .
- The book is authored by Meenakshi Raman and Sangeeta Sharma and published by Oxford University Press .
- The second revised edition of the book provides a more balanced and exhaustive coverage of the subject .
- Meenakshi Raman, PhD, is presently Group Leader of the Humanities and Management Group at the Goa Campus of Birla Institute of Technology and Science, Pilani .
- Sangeeta Sharma is also an author of the book .

2011

- The year 2011 was marked by several significant events, both nationally and internationally.
- One of the most notable events of the year was the Arab Spring, which involved the killing of Muammar Gaddafi in Libya as part of a series of protests and government overthrows that swept through the Middle East.
- On March 11th, an underwater earthquake with a magnitude of 9.0 hit off the coast of Japan, causing a tsunami that hit the Iwate prefecture with waves over 130 feet high. This led to a nuclear disaster at the Fukushima Daiichi Nuclear Power Plant.
- The Occupy movement began with the Occupy Wall Street protests.
- South Sudan became the world's newest country.
- Minecraft was released and went on to become the best-selling video game.
- The 2011 Norway attacks marked the rise of white supremacist terrorism across the west.
- The U.S. national security team gathered in the White House Situation Room to monitor the progress of Operation Neptune Spear, which resulted in the death of Al-Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden.
- 2011 was designated as the International Year of Forests, International Year of Chemistry, and International Year for People of African Descent.

2. Business Communication for Managers, Payal Mehra, Pearson, Delhi, 2012.

- Business Communication for Managers is a book written by Payal Mehra and published by Pearson in Delhi in 2012.

- The book focuses on the importance of effective communication in the business world, particularly for managers.
- It covers various aspects of business communication, including verbal and non-verbal communication, listening skills, and cross-cultural communication.
- The book also discusses the role of technology in business communication and provides practical tips for effective communication in various business scenarios.
- It is a valuable resource for managers and business professionals looking to improve their communication skills and build stronger relationships with colleagues, clients, and customers.

3. Personality Development, Harold R. Wallace et. al, Cengage Learning India Pvt. Ltd; New Delhi

Personality development is the process of enhancing one's character and improving one's behavior and attitude towards life. It is a continuous process that involves the development of various aspects of an individual's personality, such as emotional, intellectual, social, and moral development.

According to Harold R. Wallace and his colleagues at Cengage Learning India Pvt. Ltd, some key points to consider in personality development are:

1. Self-awareness: Understanding one's strengths and weaknesses is the first step towards personality development.
2. Positive thinking: A positive attitude towards life can help in overcoming challenges and achieving success.
3. Effective communication: Good communication skills are essential for building strong relationships and achieving success in personal and professional life.
4. Goal setting: Setting realistic goals and working towards achieving them can help in personal growth and development.
5. Time management: Effective time management is essential for achieving a balance between personal and professional life.
6. Emotional intelligence: The ability to understand and manage one's emotions and the emotions of others is an important aspect of personality development.
7. Continuous learning: Learning new skills and acquiring knowledge can help in personal and professional growth.

In conclusion, personality development is a continuous process that involves the development of various aspects of an individual's personality. It is important to focus on self-awareness, positive thinking, effective communication, goal setting, time management, emotional intelligence, and continuous learning to achieve personal growth and development.

2006

- President George W. Bush signed the USA Patriot Act into law.
- Democrats gained control of both houses of Congress during the midterm elections.
- The Dow Jones Industrial Average closed above 12,000 for the first time in its 110-year history.
- Del Monte announced that it would end pineapple production in Hawaii because it was no longer economically feasible to grow pineapple in the state.
- 243 people were injured in pro-democracy protest in Nepal after Nepali security forces opened fire on protesters against King Gyanendra.
- An earthquake struck Java, Indonesia at 5:53:58 AM local time (22:53:58 UTC May 26) devastating Bantul and the city of Yogyakarta, killing over 6,600 people.
- An explosion in a coal mine in Sago, West Virginia trapped and killed 12 miners, while leaving one miner in critical condition.
- Prime Minister Ariel Sharon of Israel suffered a second, apparently more serious stroke.
- The 2006 Winter Olympics were held in Turin, Italy.
- A massive mudslide occurred in Southern Leyte, Philippines killing an estimated 1,126 people.
- Explosions occurred at the al-Askari Shrine in Samara, Iraq.
- Sydney, Australia sweltered through its hottest New Year's Day then on record with the temperature peaking at 45 degrees celsius, sparking bush fires and power outages.
- In College Football, 8th BCS National Championship: #2 Texas beat #1 Southern California, 41-38, at 92nd Rose Bowl.

4. Practical Communication by L.U.B. Pandey; A.I.T.B.S. Publications India Ltd.; Krishan Nagar

- Practical Communication is a book written by L.U.B. Pandey.
- It is published by A.I.T.B.S. Publications India Ltd.
- The publisher is located in Krishan Nagar.
- The book focuses on practical aspects of communication.
- It is a useful resource for those looking to improve their communication skills in a practical manner.
- The book covers various topics related to communication, including verbal and non-verbal communication, listening skills, and effective writing.
- It is written in a clear and concise manner, making it easy to understand and follow.
- The book is suitable for students, professionals, and anyone looking to improve their communication skills.

Delhi 2013

- The Delhi Legislative Assembly election was held on 4 December 2013, with the result announced on 8 December resulting in formation of the Fifth Legislative Assembly of Delhi.
- The Bharatiya Janata Party won a plurality, closely followed by Aam Aadmi Party, in its first election; this resulted in a hung assembly.
- The voter turnout was 66%, highest for the state till date.

5. Personality Development & Soft Skills, Barun K.Mitra, Oxford University Press, New Delhi, 2012.

- The second edition of Personality Development and Soft Skills aims to serve as a guide to equip readers with all the necessary skills required to be an effective communicator in the increasingly competitive professional space.
- The book is designed to serve as a textbook that addresses the requirements of students of any discipline who are on the threshold of starting their careers .
- The book would prove equally beneficial to young managers who have already had a taste of corporate life .
- The book covers a wide range of topics including Personality Development, Soft Skills, Communication Skills, Spoken English, Phonetics, Accent, Intonation, Résumé or Curriculum Vitae, and Group Discussion.

6. Public Speaking, William S. Pfeiffer, Pearson, Delhi, 2012.

- “Public Speaking” is a book written by William S. Pfeiffer and published by Pearson in Delhi in 2012.
- The book focuses on the art of public speaking and provides tips and techniques for delivering effective speeches.
- Some of the key topics covered in the book include understanding your audience, organizing your speech, using visual aids, and managing stage fright.
- The book also includes practical exercises and real-life examples to help readers improve their public speaking skills.
- Overall, “Public Speaking” by William S. Pfeiffer is a valuable resource for anyone looking to improve their public speaking abilities.

7. Human Values, A.N. Tripathi, New Age International Pvt. Ltd. Publishers New Delhi, 2005

- The book “Human Values” is written by A.N. Tripathi and published by New Age International Pvt. Ltd. Publishers in New Delhi in 2005 .
- The book presents a holistic picture of the good life, which transcends the prevalent narrow understanding of what constitutes success, fulfillment, and happiness in life .

- It offers a fresh interpretation of human values as the collectivity of all those values which enrich the different dimensions of life- material, societal, psychological, aesthetic, ethical, and spiritual .
- A harmonious realization of all these values helps us grow as truly and fully human persons .
- The book synthesizes the insights of both the East and the West and presents an integrated view of the human person and the good life .

8. English Grammar & Usage, R.P.Sinha, Oxford University Press, New Delhi, 2005.

- “English Grammar & Usage” is a book written by R.P.Sinha and published by Oxford University Press in New Delhi in 2005.
- The book covers various aspects of English grammar and usage, providing readers with a comprehensive guide to the language.
- It is intended for students, teachers, and anyone interested in improving their knowledge of English grammar and usage.
- The book is organized into chapters, each covering a specific topic related to grammar and usage.
- Topics covered in the book include parts of speech, sentence structure, verb tenses, punctuation, and common errors in usage.
- The book also includes exercises and quizzes to help readers test their knowledge and understanding of the material.
- Overall, “English Grammar & Usage” by R.P.Sinha is a valuable resource for anyone looking to improve their proficiency in the English language.

9. English Grammar & Composition, Wren & Martin S.Chand & Co Ltd, New Delhi, 2009.

- English Grammar & Composition is a book written by Wren & Martin and published by S.Chand & Co Ltd, New Delhi in 2009.
- The book is a comprehensive guide to English grammar and composition.
- It covers various topics such as parts of speech, tenses, active and passive voice, direct and indirect speech, and more.
- The book is written in a clear and concise manner, making it easy to understand and follow.
- It is a popular choice among students and teachers for learning and teaching English grammar and composition.
- The book includes numerous examples and exercises to help readers practice and improve their skills.
- It is a valuable resource for anyone looking to improve their English grammar and composition skills.

10. Soft Skills for Everyone. Jeff Butterfield, Cengage Learning India Pvt. Ltd; New Delhi 2017.

Soft skills are personal attributes that enable someone to interact effectively and harmoniously with other people. They are essential for success in the workplace and in life. Here are some key soft skills that everyone should develop:

1. Communication: The ability to communicate effectively, both verbally and in writing, is essential for success in any field. Good communication skills involve active listening, clear and concise expression, and the ability to tailor your message to your audience.
2. Teamwork: The ability to work effectively as part of a team is crucial in most work environments. This involves being able to collaborate, share ideas, and support your colleagues.
3. Problem-solving: The ability to analyze a situation, identify potential solutions, and choose the best course of action is a valuable skill in any field. This requires critical thinking, creativity, and the ability to make decisions.
4. Time management: The ability to manage your time effectively is essential for meeting deadlines and achieving your goals. This involves setting priorities, planning your work, and avoiding distractions.
5. Adaptability: The ability to adapt to new situations and challenges is essential in today's fast-paced work environment. This involves being open to new ideas, learning new skills, and being flexible in your approach.
6. Leadership: The ability to lead and motivate others is a valuable skill in any field. This involves setting a vision, inspiring others, and taking responsibility for the success of your team.
7. Emotional intelligence: The ability to understand and manage your own emotions, as well as the emotions of others, is essential for building strong relationships and achieving success. This involves empathy, self-awareness, and the ability to regulate your emotions.
8. Work ethic: A strong work ethic is essential for achieving success in any field. This involves being reliable, responsible, and dedicated to your work.
9. Positive attitude: A positive attitude can help you overcome challenges and achieve your goals. This involves being optimistic, resilient, and maintaining a can-do attitude.
10. Continuous learning: The ability to learn and grow is essential for achieving long-term success. This involves being curious, seeking out new knowledge and skills, and being open to feedback and improvement.

These are just some of the many soft skills that are essential for success in the workplace and in life. By developing these skills, you can improve your ability to interact effectively with others, achieve your goals, and build a successful career.